

The Studio Museum in Harlem Announces its 2023–24 Artists in Residence

The Studio Museum in Harlem announced the 2023–24 participants in its world-renowned Artist-in-Residence program, which has championed the work of generations of outstanding artists of African and Afro-Latinx descent. sonia louise davis, Malcolm Peacock, and Zoë Pulley have been chosen as the program's newest cohort, joining a creative community that has grown over the past half-century to nearly 150 alumni, including some of the most celebrated artists working today. From October 2023 to September 2024, the artists in residence will receive institutional and material support, including studio space, ongoing interaction with Studio Museum curators, professional development guidance, and a culminating exhibition.

sonia louise davis

Studio Museum in Harlem 2023–24 artist in residence sonia louise davis
Photo: Ivan Forde

Malcolm Peacock

Studio Museum in Harlem 2023–24 artist in residence Malcolm Peacock Photo: Elliott Jerome Brown Jr.

Zoë Pulley

Studio Museum in Harlem 2023–24 artist in residence Zoë Pulley
Photo: Nik Muka

sonia louise davis

emergence: wellspring, 2023

Peruvian highland wool, merino, recycled acrylic, 58 x 58 x 2 in.
Image courtesy the artist

sonia louise davis

emergence: jewel in the lotus, 2022.

Merino, Icelandic wool, recycled wool, acrylic yarns, 58 x 62 x 2 in.
The Rockefeller Foundation
Image courtesy the artist

The Studio Museum in Harlem Announces its 2023–24 Artists in Residence

Malcolm Peacock

We served... and they felt tiny bursts along the horizon, 2021

Performance view

Photo: TK Smith

Image courtesy the artist

Malcolm Peacock

After Ida, 2023

Hand braided kanekalon on paper, 16 x 16 in.

Image courtesy the artist

Zoë Pulley

dear[ ] (video still), 2023

Image courtesy the artist

Zoë Pulley

moving on up (?), 2022

Found garments with embroidery

Image courtesy the artist